Fire calls Field fire

Embers from garbage burning in a barrel nearby blew to a field in Broadwell and ignited 20 acres of har-vested beans and corn around 2:58 p.m. Sunday.

The barrel was reported to be 20 feet away from the field, apparently not far enough. The field is at 670 1025 St. in Broadwell.

Lincoln Rural Fire responded with mutual aid from roadwell, Elkhart and Middletown fire departments and firefighters fought the burning field for about 45 minutes.

Area farmers arrived and pulled disks behind tractors help smother the fire. Since the bean and corn has been harvested, the fire was easier to contain than ear lier fires involving standing corn. Lincoln rural Fire Chief Bob Thomas asked people be careful when burning trash near fields. Thomas

Analysts expect Feds to hold interest rates

BY JEANNINE AVERSA

BY JEANNINE AVERSA THE ASSOCIATED PRESS WASHINGTON — The Federal Reserve, after pushing up interest rates for more than a year to brake the speeding economy, will stay on the sidelines for the rest of this year, analysts predict. They say the high-er rates have slowed growth to a more sustainable pace.

Many private economists expect e Fed will repeat its June and ugust decisions not to boost interthe August decisions not to boost inter-est rates, given mounting evidence that inflation — aside from a burst inienergy costs — isn't worrisome.

"The economy is like a car that the Fed has been trying to slow. The Fed has its foot on the brake and we don't expect them to have to step on the brake any harder," said Gary Thayer, chief economist at the stock brokerage house A.G. Edwards & Sons Inc. in St. Louis.

The last rate movement was an aggressive half-point increase on May 16.

May 10. The Federal Open Market Committee, composed of Fed board members and regional bank presi-dents, was meeting behind closed doors Tuesday to discuss interest rate policy. An aftermoon announce-ment was expected.

The points in the intervention announce ment was expected. "The likelihood is that the Fed is going to take a break for the fall and the early winter," given the evi-dence of a slowdow, said Tim O'Neill, chief economist of Harris Bank in Chicago. Earlier Tuesday, the Index of Leading Economic Indicators was released and showed a decline by 0.1 percent in August to 105.7. And new-homes sales fell 3 per-cent in August desplit cheaper mortgage rates during the month. But even with the decline, the level of sales remained healthy. Various sines recently, have.

Various signs recently have shown that the economy, which grew at a sizzling rate of 5.2 percent in the first half of the year, is slow-ing in the second half. Many analysts believe growth in the third and fourth quarters will average 3.5 per-cent or less.

Analysts said that other factors' figure into their expectation the cen-tral bank will leave rates unchanged. They include rising oil prices, and stock market volatility, which can have the effect of dis-couraging consumer spending, thus dampening consumer spending, thus dampening economic growth

Those things "have punched the consumer in the chin," said David Jones, chief economist at Aubrey G. Lanston & Co. in New York.

THE COURIE Area high school boys' and girls' golf teams have competed in regional meets the past two days with mixed success.

Lincoln Community High School's boys team entered the Class AA Quincy Regional Iul of optimism, having placed fourth in the Central State Eight conference meet and featuring two golfer all-confer-ence team members.

But a disappointing round in the region-als ended the team's season, though Aaron Freesmeier's round was good enough for a sectional berth.

1. Six notrump. Bidding is a highly specialized language where players agree in advance that cer-tain bids in certain dircumstances have certain specific meanings. The vocabulary of bidding is very limited — the four suits, the seven numbers, the words notrump, double, redouble and pass — and yet, proper use of these 15 terms can perform wonders.

Gas prices rising at the pump

By Taxay Wrong

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Some Illinois motorists were shocked by what they saw at the gas pump Friday: prices as much as 25 cents higher than they were a day earlier. Prices fluctuated wildly across the state as the oil market was shaken by escalating unrest in the Middle East. While prices in some areas climbed by double digits, those in downtown Chicago where prices were among highest in the country in sarly summer — rose just a few cents. Springfield retiree Bartes LaRue; 62, said he doesn't know what to expect at the pump any-more.

"It should be a dollar-twenty-something. It's up and down. It fluctuates too much," said. LaRue, who bought $5 in gas at a Phillips 66 station, where the cheapest price was almost 1.48 a gallon. Early in the week, gas was as low as 1.23 a gallon in Springfield.

As of Thursday, the price for a gailon of regu-lar-grade gasoline in Springfield averaged $1.39 a gallon, the Chicago metropolitan area averaged about $1.50, Champaign-Urbana $1.56, and the Metro East just more than $1.41.

The state average for regular gas was just less than $1.48 a gallon, according to AAA Chicago

Those numbers do not reflect overnight price hikes. Friday's averages would not be available until Monday, said AAA Chicago spokesman Steve Nolan.

Prices varied widely because some retailers passed along increases in wholesale gas prices, while others chose to sell gas at a lower profit Within months of his 1983 arrest. Mahaffey claimed police had beaten him. But a judge found no evidence of police abuse and said the police officers' denials were more credible than Mahaffey's claims.

Years later, authorities learned that police in that part of Chicago had tortured scores of suspects — often using methods that matched Mahaffey's claims.

of directors and vice president of Gas City. He said wholesale prices roce about 10 cents a gallon this week because of instability in the Mideast—inspire again after Threnday's attack on a U.S. destroyer, which raised fears that fuel production and delivery could be slowed and sent crude oil futures prices soaring. "(Prices) are subject to change on a moment's notice," said Torstrick, whose Gas City prices rose between 5 cents and 10 cents a gallon Friday.

In Chicago, Susie Lam paid $1.68 a gallon for gular gas, up about 4 cents from Thursday. "If it jumps up as high as this summer, I won't drive, I'll take the train," said Lam, 20, a college student.

"There was no evidence that coercion or physical threats caused her acts." McMorrow said. "To the contrary, the evidence indicates that the defendant was motivated by her own desire for a baby." SPRINGFIELD — The state Supreme Court upheld the convicn and death sentence of a woman involved in the gruesome murders of two children and their mother, whose unborn son was cut from her own desire for a baby." Williams' boyfriend, Fedell Caffey, also was convicted of three counts of first-degree murder and one count of aggravated kidnapping for the slayings of Debra Evans and two of her children.

Our town is rich in history; save the schools To the editor:

The courthouse, the churches, I he courthouse, the churches, the homes, the downtown, all have historic significance. Lincoln is a town to be proud of. Organizations try to attract tourism, due to that history. огу

There is the tour of homes, renovation of store fronts, the re-enact-ments of Lincoln christening the city, students doing reports on the history of Lincoln, the historical society helping families with genealogy research of their ances

The roots that have made this town so secure are the roots that have made the people of Lincoln a united community. We have the responsibility and the capability to educate our children with a sense of pride and loyalty towards their school, and with the deep commi-ment to honor the past. They can have a place to learn with all the n technology needed to progress

The teachers can have a place The teachers can have a place that is comfortable and satisfying. They both can have an environ-ment that is safe, up-to-date, bright, and spacious, an environment where the past, present, and the future can be blended together.

If we save our schools, the kids will be first. Rather than a burder to be tolerated, saving our school can be a real opportunity for indi-vidual and collective growth. There are options other than

WASHINGTON -- The Supreme Court turned aside a challenge to the 2-year-old national tobacco set-tlement Monday.

The court refused to consider whether smokers wound up paying illegally higher prices for their cigarettes as a result of the landmark $246 billion deal.

In late 1998, the tobacco industry ended a slew of health-related lawsuits by agreeing to yearly payments to states. Payments are spread over 25 years.

The money was to compensate states for the cost of treating smoking-related illnesses of people on Medicaid.

Medicaid. Two men, Leo Hise and Jack Isch, filed suit in fed-eral court in Oklahoma a month after the settlement was signed. They claimed the settlement violated antitrust laws because the nation's biggest tobacco companies went into the deal intending to pass on the costs to smokers.

Intersection collision Rita Sue Francis, 31, 340 Fifth Street, approached a green light turn left on Woodlawn Road from North College Street when Christopher A. Koeppen, 22, hit her car in the dri-ver's side in the intersection.

Ver s side in the intersection. Koeppen told police he was driv-ing east on Woodlawn and had a red light, but the light turned green and he let off the brake and proceeded into the intersection. Francis cut him off, he told police, and he hit her car in the intersection.

Two witnesses confirmed Koeppen's side and said the light was green on Woodlawn, the report said.

Lincoln police ticketed Francis with disobeying a traffic control device and operating an uninsured vehicle at 12:33 p.m. Saturday.

Rear-ended

Rear-ended George W. Popelka, 85, of Richland Center, Wis., hit the car of Janet Overton, 57, 335 N. Union St., in the rear when she stopped to turn left on to Union Street from Woodlawn Road. He then drove away from the scene.

Popelka pulled into a parking lot off Woodlawn Road. He told police he left the scene because the road was too congested at the scene of the accident.
